

FUNERAL OF MRS. HAYS ON TUESDAY

WELL KNOWN LOCAL WOMAN
PASSED AWAY LATE
SUNDAY P. M.

DEATH FOLLOWS ACCIDENT

Mrs. Carrie Weik Hays Was Born
And Lived In City Her Entire Life-time.

Mrs. Carrie W. Hays, one of Greencastle's most prominent women, passed away shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Putnam county hospital. Her death was caused by pneumonia developing as the result of a fall and a general run down condition.

She was born in Greencastle on Jan. 9, 1859, the daughter of Louis and Catherine Weik. She was the third of eight children.

After finishing the public schools, she attended the Greencastle Female College, located on the corner of Locust and Anderson streets, site of the old Locust street church. Mrs. Hays graduated with the class of 1875. There were three girls in the class besides Mrs. Hays. These were Mary McKee, Idelle Wilson and Allie Knight. Mrs. Hays was the last survivor.

In 1877, Mrs. Hays went to the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where she studied both piano and voice. In 1881, she became teacher of music in the Greencastle schools and taught for about six years.

Mrs. Hays joined the Christian church when about 16 years of age. At the age of 14, she was elected organist of the Christian Sunday school and from that time until the age of 53, she served as organist and choir-leader at the Christian church, College avenue church, and Locust street church.

On November 27, 1883, she was united in marriage to Francis Asbury Hays. To this union was born one son, Louis. Her husband, a civil war veteran, preceded her in death on Dec. 10, 1927. Besides Louis, she is survived by three step-children, Mrs. Ollie Turk, Portland, Me., Mrs. Flora Bigger, Houston, Tex., and Alfred Hays of Lafayette. Other survivors are, two brothers, Otto B. Weik, St. Louis, Albert L. Weik, Chicago and one sister, Mrs. Missouri Hanna, of Burbank, Calif. She was also a sister of the late Jesse Weik, one of the most noted authorities on Abraham Lincoln.

Mrs. Hays was always deeply interested in her home city and took great delight in helping to improve Greencastle. Five beautiful homes, which she built, stand as monuments to her civic pride. She was fond of church music and from girlhood, enjoyed playing church hymns more than any other kind of music.

Mrs. Hays was a kind and loving mother. She was of a very charitable disposition and her home was always open to her friends and loved ones.

For many years she was active in the Women's Relief Corps. She was ready at all times to assist the unfortunate or to help with any church movement.

For the past five years she had been in failing health but her condition did not become serious until last week.

Friends are invited to call at the McCurry Funeral Home at any time this evening or Tuesday to view the remains. It is requested that flowers please be omitted.

The funeral services will be held from the McCurry Home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Victor L. Raphael and the Rev. B. H. Bruner in charge. Interment will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

CHICAGO BANK VAULT LOOTED

SAFE ROBBED NEW YEAR'S DAY.
BANDITS SET TIME
LOCK

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (UP)—While 1,000 excited depositors milled about outside, shouting threats against the institution's cashier, the time locked vault doors in the Lawrence Avenue National Bank swung open last night and revealed a scene of disorder which caused its president, George Pilot, almost to faint.

Since New Year's night, when cashier John E. Malloy, reported how four men mysteriously had robbed the bank and forced him to set the time lock so the doors could not be opened for the longest possible period, rumors had spread of what would be found inside the vault.

When the doors were opened it was disclosed that a number of safety deposit boxes had been looted, with a loss that may run into thousands of dollars.

A smaller vault, in which the bank kept its cash supply, also had been broken open, and between $10,000 and $20,000 taken.

The discovery, police said, substantiated the story which Malloy told Milwaukee police Thursday night—that four men, posing as bank examiners, had called him to the bank New Year's day, held him up, looted the vaults, forced him to lock the doors and then taken him for a four-hour automobile ride and set him free near the Wisconsin city.

SEARCH POND FOR TRACE OF MILLARD HAMM

MISSING MAN BELIEVED TO HAVE GONE SOUTH, HOW-EVER, ON BUS

SHERIFF MAKES SEARCH SUN.

No Trace of Missing Greencastle
Man Is Found at Allendale
Pond

Fear that Millard F. Hamm, 76 years old, missing Greencastle man, had drowned himself in Allendale pond, caused Sheriff Alva Bryan to make a search of the pond and surroundings Sunday, but no trace of the missing man was found.

Sheriff Bryan said the ice on the pond showed traces of having been broken near the center but he believed it would have been impossible for anyone to have broken the ice and fallen through.

Paul Allen, owner of the summer resort, said he had not seen Mr. Hamm along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks which border the pond on the north, for the past week, although prior to that time he had seen Mr. Hamm frequently. Workmen cutting wood in the vicinity last week also said they had seen no trace of Mr. Hamm.

It is believed that Mr. Hamm did not return to Greencastle after going as far south as Bloomington in a bus. The bus driver positively identified one of his passengers last week as Mr. Hamm. He also described a knife which Hamm lost on the bus and which he later help find and restore to the passenger, which relatives here said answered the description of one belonging to Hamm.

The bus driver said that his passenger made inquiries regarding bus connections to Columbus and Louisville.

Hamm had been in ill health recently and relatives said he had made threats to drown himself. It is feared that he will not be found alive. His continued absence is causing his wife and other relatives much anxiety.

Poor Claims Total $2,077.60

EVERY TOWNSHIP BUT ONE IN CLAIMS ALLOWED BY COM-MISSIONERS MONDAY

Claims allowed for aid given indigent persons, by the county commissioners Monday, totaled $2,077.60, according to a total of figures available at the county auditor's office. This total figure represented aid given since the last meeting of the commissioners a month ago.

If the present month can be taken for an average of the monthly expenses during the entire year, Putnam county taxpayers will have provided a total of $24,000 for poor aid at the end of the year. The claims for poor, however, usually decrease to a marked extent during warmer weather.

The claims allowed Monday represented aid given by township trustees in the various townships.

Greencastle township led the list with a total expenditure of $938.64 for the past month. The next largest demand was made by Washington township where $362.80 was spent.

Total claims in other townships were Jackson, $103.56; Franklin, $44.60; Russell, $198.00; Clinton, $89.00; Monroe, $119.96; Marion, $84.03; Madison, $282.69; Warren, $23.31; Jefferson, $122.39; and Cloverdale, $33.01.

LESLIE SCANS CRIME BOARD'S FINAL REPORT

GOVERNOR TO INCLUDE PARTS OF REPORT IN ADDRESS TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (UP)—Governor Harry Leslie today was studying the completed report of his commission on enforcement and prevention of crime with a view to incorporating at least a portion of the recommendations in his report to the legislature.

Fourteen legislative bills providing for changes in the state judicial, probation, and police systems were included in the report. Also, there were numerous recommendations for improvement in administration of state departments and institutions dealing with crime.

Briefly, the crime commission recommends employment of experienced and trained superintendents, physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, guards and parole officers, in order that the criminal class may be dealt with intelligently.

Creation of a state prison board to consider applications of inmates in the four penal institutions, also was recommended. Establishment of a separate institution for the criminally insane and mentally defective criminals, and for defective delinquents, was recommended.

The General Assembly was urged to make an adequate appropriation for compilation of crime statistics, so that there will be sufficient data from accurate conclusions regarding crime.

Among the causes of crime, as cited in the report, were the automobile, moving pictures, and "lax law enforcement."

"Since passage of the prohibition law, the spectacle of the lack of prohibition enforcement, the winking by officials at violations by so-called pillars of society, the singling out for punishment of violators without social standing but with sufficient money to pay fines, and the protection from arrest of numerous bootleggers and higher-ups, whether due to incompetence or intention, constitute as a whole, a most destructive influence upon the respect for law and law enforcement on the part of our coming generation," the report said.

FRENCH PAY TRIBUTE TO MARNE HERO

MARSHAL JOSEPH JACQUES
JOFFRE

BODY RESTS IN CHAPEL

Simple Military Camp Cot Holds Remains of World War Military Genius

PARIS, Jan. 5, (UP)—The body of Marshal Joseph Joffre lay in state on a simple military cot at the chapel of Saint Louis today, while thousands of Frenchmen, many of them weeping, filed reverently past the bier.

In the marshal's closed hands rested a silver crucifix. A military medal was the only decoration on the famous black tunic he wore at the battle of the Marne, when he gained the nation's acclaim and love as the hero of a decisive battle.

Joffre's flag, which was carried behind him by a flag-bearer throughout the world war, was placed at his head. At the foot of his simple cot, on 19 black silk cushions, glittered the 40 military decorations given him by the nations of the world.

Also at the foot of the cot, on a separate cushion, lay the marshal's baton. The chapel walls were draped in black, and bore the battle torn flags of regiments which were wiped out in the world war, or disbanded after the armistice.

French war veterans, many of them blind, legless, or crippled, awaited their turn to enter the chapel. Some had seen Joffre in action when he won the titles given him by the people of France, the Saviour of Paris and the Hero of the Marne.

Eight trench-guns encircled the old soldier as he lay in death.

The light of four giant candles, held in immense golden candelabra, flickered over his shrunken form like the rays of a soldier's campfire.

Joffre's body arrived at the chapel of Saint Louis at 7:15 a. m., transferred from the hospital of Saint Jean de Dieu by automobile. Gen. Henri Gouraud, military governor of Paris, and officers of Joffre's staff accompanied the body on the short journey through the streets of Paris.

AUXILIARY TO WAR VETERANS IS ORGANIZED

WOMEN FORM PATRIOTIC OR-GANIZATION AT MEETING OF SPANISH WAR VETS.

Another patriotic organization for Greencastle came into existence Sunday afternoon when wives and daughters of members of Earl Fisk Camp, No. 48, United Spanish War Veterans formed an auxiliary with a large enrollment. This occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Evans and daughter, west of the city.

The camp of the Spanish War Veterans was in session at the same time in the Evans log cabin and the ladies were in the Evans residence awaiting summons to the public portion of the men's meeting. The auxiliary enrolled eighteen members at that session, which was, of course, very informal. The details of the organization will be perfected later.

At the splendidly attended meeting of the Spanish War men, Benton Currier was elected as commander and closed a successful year as commander and he and all the other retiring officers received the thanks of the camp. Adjutant Ashworth and Quartermaster Hawkins were re-elected to succeed themselves, each having had their respective positions many years, most worthily.

Congressman C. C. Gillen was a distinguished guest of the camp, and he made one of his characteristic, pleasant talks, asking for "freedom of speech" from the members of the camp in all their dealings with him, on pension matters, or any other subject in which he could be of assistance.

Past Department Commander McHatten, of Rockville, was also a distinguished visitor, and spoke briefly. Cider and ginger-bread formed the refreshments, after the ladies joined the gathering. The officers installed were the following:

Commander Thomas J. Tuttle.
Sr. Vice Commander, Thomas W. Jones.
Jr. Vice Commander, Jesse J. Beecher.

Adjutant, Frank A. Ashworth.
Quartermaster, Dr. Eugene Hawkins.
Trustee for 3 years, Lea Paxton.

Legion Membership Breaks All Time Record Enrollment

Paid up 1931 membership in the Indiana Department of The American Legion at the close of a contest between the northern and southern divisions of the state, has broken all previous records, Ollie A. Davis of Tipton, department adjutant, has announced following tabulation of cards forwarded to state headquarters.

The seven southern congressional districts in the state, led by Floyd F. Young, of Vincennes, department commander, and Dr. Joseph L. Allen, of Greenfield, vice commander, won the membership contest ending January 1st from the northern division led by Department Adjutant Davis and vice commander P. T. Haas, of Ft. Wayne, it has been announced.

The Indiana Legion closed the old year with a total of 17,896 members paid up for 1931 which was an increase of 3,999 over the same date of last year tabulations of the large number of cards received in the last days at headquarters show. This record has not been excelled since the veteran's organization was formed in this state at the end of the world war.

"Initiative that posts and members of the Legion have taken in finding employment for men and in giving assistance to veterans in all matters growing out of their wartime service has been the chief factor in our record enrollment," said Department Adjutant Davis.

"The Indiana Legion has reached only the half-way mark of the Legion year and there will be no let up in membership effort until every eligible veteran is given a chance to join," said Department Adjutant Davis.

The Indiana Department of the Legion is having engraved honor cards which will be given to members who enroll or renew five or more members in the Legion during the next few months, it has been announced. This card will be signed by Department Commander Young and other Legion officials and will be a souvenir to the Legionnaires who work on membership, it is announced.

Practically every Legion post in the state is engaged in relief work and in helping dependants of veterans along with its membership effort, state officials of the organization stated following a survey of posts.

Mr. Britton succeeds Ora A. Day, who was defeated in the last election by H. A. Sherrill of Greencastle, who attended the first commissioner's meeting as a member Monday morning.

The commissioners faced a busy day with claims occupying their first attention Monday morning. They were expected to be disposed of during the morning. Filing of several appointive offices, allowing of a contract for burial of pauper dead, and selection of depositories for county funds, were other matters to come before the commissioners Monday.

Geo. Washington's Wedding Details

When The Young Virginian Met And Won Martha Custis Of Interest Now

So much has been written on the more spectacular phases of George Washington's life that it is some times difficult to appreciate the really human qualities of the man. One of the finest stories ever told of Washington is that of his courtship of Martha Custis and their subsequent marriage. In this story are revealed some of the best and most attractive qualities of America's greatest hero. The firm, strong-willed leader of men who unflinchingly would face death on the battlefield found that he needed the companionship and helpful counsel of a woman. Fortunately, he met the sort of woman he wanted to reside in his home, and they were married on January 6, 1759.

The story of George Washington's marriage to Martha Custis is told by the Division of Information and Publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in a statement intended to call attention to the 172nd anniversary of this notable event.

George Washington first met the Widow Custis at the home of Major Chamberlayne in May 1758. The lady had then been a widow for about a year. She married Colonel Daniel Parke Custis when she was seventeen years old, and was left at his death eight years later, with two small children and a considerable fortune. Although it is said that Washington was formally presented to Mrs. Custis for the first time by Chamberlayne it is almost certain that the famous soldier and the charming widow had at least heard of each other before that time.

Fate must have taken a hand in the events of that day in May when Colonel Washington was detained at William's Ferry over the Pamunkey by his friend, Major Chamberlayne, who earnestly pressed upon the young man an invitation to stay his journey and enjoy the hospitality of the plantation. But Washington was hastening to Williamsburg where he intended to ask the Governor in person for men and supplies for the frontier, which previous urgent letters had failed to obtain. Chamberlayne was insistent, however, and when it appeared that all his importunities must fail to alter the plans of the Colonel, he informed the latter that he was then entertaining the charming Mrs. Custis. This argument, apparently, was potent enough to convince the young warrior where all others had been vain, and Washington consented to remain only long enough to partake of the meal which was then being prepared.

Bishop, the personal servant of Washington, who had served under Braddock, was instructed to hold the Colonel's horse in readiness for a speedy departure as soon as dinner was over. The old soldier knew very well his master's reputation for punctuality, and since the business at Williamsburg was important, he fully expected that this wait would be a brief one. But the dinner hour passed, the sun sank lower into the west, and still Washington lingered. At last in the warm dusk of the May evening, the faithful Bishop received orders to stable the horses for the night and the journey was postponed until the next day.

There is something amusing in this scene of budding romance, although it is no wonder that Washington tarried. Martha Custis was beautiful, attractive and accomplished. She had been described as being short, slightly plump and of engaging personality. Certainly the Colonel's interest in the lady was matched by her own interest in the renowned young soldier, and such mutual agreeableness was sure to be sufficient to crowd prosaic business into the background.

However, the Governor had to be insisted, so the next day found Washington on his way to Williamsburg. But as soon as the business which took him there was taken care of, the now fully smitten Colonel proceeded to the White House, the Custis home in the Pamunkey, where it appears Mrs. Custis expected him. When he left there he must have been in high spirits, for he took with him the lady's promise to marry him as soon as he should finish his military service on the Ohio.

Washington did not see his betrothed again for several months, for it was December before he returned from this expedition. His duties fulfilled, the Colonel resigned from the army and hastened plans for the wedding. It was during Washington's absence on the frontier that he wrote the only letter to Martha which alone remains of his prenuptial correspondence with her. This dignified and gravely tender note is dated Fort Cumberland, July 20, 1758:

"We have begun our march to the Ohio. A courier is starting for Williamsburg, and I embrace the opportunity to send a few words to one whose life is now inseparable from mine. Since that happy hour when we made our pledges to each other, thoughts have been continually going to you as to another self. That Al powerful Providence may keep a both in safety, is the prayer of my faithful and ever affectionate friend.
G. Washington"

It is not certain whether the marriage occurred in Saint Peter's Church or at the bride's home, the White House. At any rate, the Reverend Mr. Mossom, rector of Saint Peter's, officiated at the ceremony. Jarred Sparks, one of Washington's earliest biographers, is the authority for the date of the wedding which he established as January 6. But no matter whether the wedding took place at the White House or in the Church, it was a notable event and was attended by a great number of Virginia's prominent people. The Governor himself was there with civil and military authorities, and many of the socially elite. Only a traditional account of the festivities on that occasion exists today, but certainly the celebration left nothing lacking.

Martha's wedding gown has been thus described by one writer: "...a satin quilt, over which a heavy white silk, interwoven with threads of silver, was looped back with white satin ribbons, richly brocaded in leaf pattern. Her bodice was of plain satin, and the brocade was fastened on the bust with a stiff butterfly bow of the ribbon. Delicate lace finished the low, square neck. There were close elbow sleeves revealing a puff and frill of lace. Strings of pearls were woven in and out of her powdered hair. Her high-heeled slippers were of white satin, with brilliant buckles."

The attractive appearance of the bride was equalled by that of the tall, well-built bridegroom. Always particular over his dress, Washington, on this occasion, was elegantly arrayed, and according to all accounts, was the most gallantly magnificent figure in all that assemblage.

At last Mount Vernon had a mistress, but months elapsed after the wedding before the young bride saw her future home. Washington had just been elected to the House of Burgesses so the young couple remained in Williamsburg while the Chamber remained in session all May. When Washington did return with his wife to his beautiful estate on the Potomac, the place became home to both of them for the remainder of their lives.

Washington's marriage was a singularly happy one. In Martha he found all those womanly qualities which were needed to supplement those of his own character. Who can measure the value of the encouragement she must have given him during the weary days of the Revolution? Certainly she was always a faithful and devoted wife, and the Father of his Country owed a great deal to her for the measure of success he attained. Among the anniversaries of the many important dates in the life of George Washington, this one of his wedding holds an element of human interest which no doubt is appreciated by all his countrymen.

Old Agreement May Aid Doctor In License Fight

INTERNATIONAL PACT USED IN NEBRASKA APPEAL BY BRITISHER

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 3 (UP)—Recurse to an old international agreement between Great Britain and the United States and legislative action to change existing Nebraska laws are expected to result from the fight of Dr. A. T. Harris to secure license to practice medicine in Nebraska.

Harris, now an X-ray technician at the state hospital for the insane, located here, came to the United States from South Africa two years ago. He applied for medical license, passed the state examinations but was denied this license on the grounds he is not a citizen of the United States.

Although Harris has made application for naturalization, he cannot receive recognition as a citizen for five years and until that time is technically regarded a British subject.

Harris has announced he will appeal from the ruling, taking his case to the supreme court on the basis of an ancient international agreement whereby Great Britain and the United States recognize the standing of scientists and permit them to carry on their work in either country.

The case has been taken up by the Nebraska State Medical Association, which has been urged by Hastings physicians, to seek legislation repealing the law under which Harris' license was denied.

Nebraska, the Hastings physicians point out, is one of three states not recognizing the treaty upon which Dr. Harris is to base his appeal.

LAW MAKING

By William Lawrence Barlow
United Press Staff Correspondent
INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 3 (UP)—The old adage about some big things having a small beginning, applies to the making of state laws, as reflected in the numerous methods members of the legislature follow in presenting their ideas to Charles Kettleborough, director of the state legislative bureau.

It is the work of Kettleborough to prepare the majority of bills that go before the senate and the house. His desk is piled high with bills already completed, those in the process of drafting, and notations on others desired by lawmakers.

In several instances, penny postal cards have been used by legislators in conveying their ideas to Kettleborough, containing only a vague idea of what the writer desired to be incorporated in his bill.

While Kettleborough was hurrying home through a blizzard a few nights ago, he was stopped on the street by one member of the legislature and in such a setting received an outline of a proposed law which he was asked to draft.

Newspaper clippings and oral conferences also form the basis for many bills, Kettleborough pointed out as he fingered through the mass of documents on his desk.

In all cases the director makes a tentative draft, conforming as nearly as possible to what he believes is desired by the member, and forwards it by mail for drafting. After it is returned to the bureau offices, Kettleborough rewrites the measure in proper form.

Frequently only one or two words are desired changed in an existing statute, which necessitates as much work as the drafting of an entirely new bill. In one case recently, $200,000 was desired changed to read $400,000.

This requires the printing of five pages of the act and the entire section must be re-enacted or rejected by the legislature.

FINED BY J. P.

J. E. Leach, of Indianapolis, charged with hunting on the C. Fenwick Reed farm without a permit, was convicted after a trial in the court of Justice of the Peace Robert H. Newgent Monday afternoon. Leach was fined $23.50 by Newgent which he paid, while still protesting his innocence.

A TEST DRILL

OAKTOWN, Ind., Jan. 2, (UP)—A test hole for oil being drilled two miles southwest of here by the Southern Indiana Oil and Gas Company is said to be the deepest of its kind in the central west. It is now down to a 4,000 foot level, more than 2,000 feet of which is through limestone.

FASHIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (UP)—In considering fashions for resort wear, the suggestion of the sleeve cannot be lost sight of. Favor has followed the sleeve of puffed versions introduced first in evening gowns in the Irene Dana fashion, and then applied to afternoon dresses. But the afternoon sleeve with a puffed treatment differs from the evening dress type considerably. It makes no attempt to be native it is practical and very flattering.

Pin-tucked expressions have a great deal to do with the success of these sleeves. Pin-tucks from the shoulder are released to form a puffed outline above the elbow, with a narrow band at that point. In the event that long sleeves are desired, the pin-tucks are again introduced, thus achieving a long slender line to the waist. This treatment is especially successful when the frock is fashioned of a sheer silk, printed or plain, with the pin-tucks repeated elsewhere in the dress.

Shirtings are handled in similar manner, sometimes confined and also favoring the gauze type of shirtings, resulting in an even softer effect. Sleeves of this sort have the happy faculty of flattering different types of women, and they offer a decided change from the frock that is sleeveless or has merely a crepe sleeve.

MOVABLE "PEE-WEE" DEVELOPS INTO INDUSTRY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5 (UP)—Edward Laughlin grew weary of hearing Juanita Scott, his eight-year-old niece, ask him to take her to the "Pee-Wee" golf links so he constructed a movable indoor course.

Juanita liked the plaything and called in her friends. Soon there was a general demand for the new toy.

Result: The formation of a $75,000 company with a local factory and orders coming in so fast that the factory can't supply the demand.

NEW INVENTION TO PHOTOGRAPH HEART BEATS

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (UP)—An apparatus by which photographs of heart beats and other body sounds can be seen in the form of oscillating waves in a mirror and can also be photographed at will, has been invented by Herr Martiny, a Berlin engineer.

It is expected that the invention will supersede the old method of stethoscopy. The new invention, the electro-stethoscope, will in short do for stethoscopy what the Roentgen-ray apparatus has done for surgery and medicine.

The invention consists of two parts, the apparatus itself being a single whole. The first part, which is an application of modern radio technique to the needs of medicine, consists of a sound amplifying apparatus which greatly magnifies sounds proceeding from the body of a patient. The second part of the instrument converts the sounds into linear waves which are reproduced and made visible in a mirror. In front of the mirror is fitted a camera and pressure upon a lever serves to set it in motion when photographs of the recorded sound waves are required.

Experiments show that different types of waves are characteristic of various conditions of health. Another advantage of the apparatus is that it makes it possible for doctors to take a large number of pictures of interesting and important cases, the records so obtained being of a permanent nature.

TACK SPRINKLING BURGLAR GIVEN 7 YEARS IN PRISON

LONDON, Jan. 5, (UP)—Weldon Collins, 50, negro, was resourceful.

A detective told the magistrate before whom Collins was arraigned on three burglary charges, that the negro always went to the bedroom of a house and sprinkled tacks on the floor, before he looked for valuables.

The officer explained Collins believed a man, with a tack in his bare foot would be more concerned with extricating it than calling for a policeman. Collins got seven years in prison.

ARSON CASES INCREASE

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5, (UP)—Arson cases in Indiana during the year have increased because of business conditions. Alfred Hogston, state fire marshal, announced in issuing a report of activities for his department during October and November.

The inspection division made 311 inspections during the two-month period; received 344 compliances on departmental orders and 84 voluntary compliances. Work of the division included examination of plans and specifications for school houses, institutional and other public construction in the state. Hogston reported.

The arson division made 41 new investigations and continued work on 10 old cases during the two months. Hogston reported 16 confessions of guilt secured, five cases submitted to grand juries, 16 arrests made, 10 cases tried in court and nine convictions obtained.

It is believed that arson investigators probably reduce the number of arson crimes by 60 per cent., Hogston said.

STATEMENT BY SAMUEL INSULL

Samuel Insull, Jr., president of the Midland United Company, in a statement made today pointed out that the group of public utility companies under the management of Samuel Insull is not in the telephone business in Indiana.

He said that Associated Telephone Utilities Company and its subsidiary, the Indiana Commercial Telephone Corporation, have no connection with the group of companies under Samuel Insull's management.

Mr. Insull Jr.'s statement in full is as follows:

"The parent institution for practically all of the public utilities in the state of Indiana under Mr. Samuel Insull's management is the Midland United Company. Neither the Midland United Company, nor any of its associated companies in the so-called 'Insull group' are interested in Indiana telephone companies.

"A misapprehension has been current on this subject into which the public generally might fall. To prevent general misunderstanding this statement is made.

"Any affiliation of officers or directors of companies in the so-called 'Insull group' with the telephone business would be a private affair of the gentlemen in question. Such af-

PROPOSED OCEAN HOP DELAYED BY LACK OF FUNDS

HAMPTON ROADS, Va., Jan. 5 (UP)—Lack of funds with which to purchase a new sextant today held up the projected New York-to-Paris flight of Mrs. Beryl Hart and William S. MacLaren, Jr.

The fliers, who landed here Saturday night after a damaged sextant, darkness and diminishing fuel supply forced them back to the mainland when they were within an hour's flying distance from Bermuda, announced last night they had obtained the necessary navigation instrument from the naval academy at Annapolis and that they would take off this morning.

Later, however, they learned that while the sextant was available for their use, they would have to pay for it first. When hurried efforts to obtain the needed amount failed, they postponed the resumption of the hop to Bermuda, first stop on the air project. Mrs. Hart, who is one of the few women holding an unlimited transport pilot's license, said she would continue efforts to get the backing.

CHAPTER IV

Three thousand men who had failed to "beat the rap"—killers, con men, gunmen, sluggers, absconders, enablers, dope fiends, burglars—that sinister other limb of society—were herded in the Big House. They were jammed into cells, crammed into workshops, crowded into messhalls. They were fed on tainted meat, beans and prison stum. Their surliness was met with curses, their grumblings with blows and their aggressiveness with solitary confinement in the cooler.

Tower guards nervously paced the prison parapets, always on hair-trigger to release their hellish machine gun bullets, and guards who were not allowed to carry firearms, used their bludgeons at the flimsiest provocation. The warden was openly anxious. Sometimes the general sentiment of the prisoners, who were caged like menagerie animals, manifested itself in a pandemonium of mass yelling, which the guards could not quiet. Here in the Big House the prison code was peremptory and omnipotent. It was more zealously observed among the prisoners than was the law by which so-called decent people live. It was the code of mutual protection. Don't squeal! Don't stool!

It was the code of the underworld where the double-cross inspired a swift and violent death. In prison it was the prisoner against the world. And in prison, as in every other walk of life, there were traitors. Kent, who had had his first lesson the night he entered prison and who still felt the dull throb in his jaw where Butch's fist had landed, quickly learned the credo in a hundred little ways. He

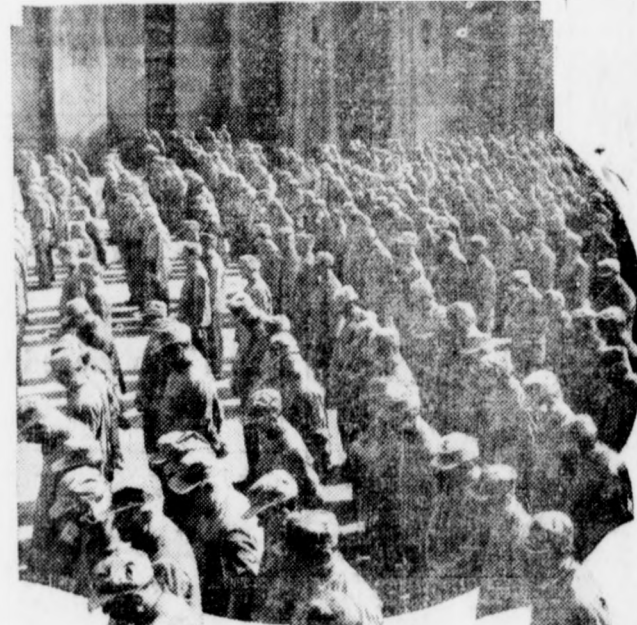

He pronounced the name with lingering deliciousness. Kent glanced at him suspiciously. But Morgan was looking away, his lips moving. Anne Marlowe! So that was her name. Anne Marlowe! How simple and beautiful. Just like her picture. Morgan walked away, groggy, paying no further attention to Kent. Morgan passed through the crowd of prisoners, seeing nothing. He strode by without heeding a Mexican who was intoning a pater-noster in Spanish, two fine-looking men who might have been bankers in the other world; a young boy, thin, tubercular, coughing; two grizzled old-timers cursing amiably between themselves; two Chinese jabbering in their monosyllabic jargon. He walked on until he ran into Butch, who was standing in the midst of his usual group of admirers—Olsen, the Swede; Joe Lajensky, one-time gunman and now a trusty and tender of the prison garden; Dopey, who still got his heroin somehow and sent the drug scorching into his veins through a scratch made with a rusty safety pin, and Putnam, who had killed a man because he wore spats.

"Some day I'll carve the heart out of that skunk Wallace, and send it in a tin can to the Governor," Butch was saying. He saw Morgan: "Say, Morg, we're getting everything in fine shape for the big blowoff."

Morgan nodded, but said nothing. "Say, what's getting into you? You act like you're takin' hop. Come on, son, out of it."

"Yeah."

"Yeah—we've got the works fixed." Butch and the rest got their heads

Three thousand men who had failed to "beat the rap" were herded together in "The Big House."

had learned, too, that there was an undercurrent of which he was not permitted to know. The prisoners were becoming more bold and brazen every day.

Morgan, who singled Kent out all ways when they were in the narrow recreation yard, sought by careful questioning to draw from him the name of the girl in the picture. He had never returned the photograph to Kent, but always had kept it close to his heart. Kent had become angered when he found the picture gone the morning after Butch had silenced him, but he did not look like his sister. He had said he was not married. But try as he could, Morgan could learn nothing about the girl. He looked often at the little picture as he held it half concealed in the palm of his hand, and he felt an impulse to demand of Kent that girl's name and address. He began to grow jealous over her and to secretly hate Kent. A week after the boy had entered the prison, Morgan walked over to him in the recreation yard.

"Don't take it so hard, Kid—" he began sympathetically.

"Don't take it so hard! Hell! This sort of thing might be all right forer, Butch or men like him. But for me it's different. I never was meant for such treatment and such atmosphere."

"Oh, Butch and the rest aren't so bad. It never meant anything for Butch to knock off a human life. But he's a good guy—most killers are regular guys. Nothing pussy-foot or underhand about them."

"You can't sell me on Butch or well, he's not my kind. Anyway he bullies me from morning until night."

"I guess if you was walking along with your gal on the outside you wouldn't give me and Butch a knock-down, eh?"

"Say, damn you, don't bring Anne's name in this!" shouted Kent.

"Anne—Anne—Anne's Anne?" Morgan was hopeful.

"Anne Marlowe—my fiancée—and don't talk about her—I tell you, don't talk about her in a place like this—I won't have it—"

Kent was excited. Tears welled in his eyes. His body shook with emotion. Morgan was sympathetic.

"There, there, Kid, I guess I know how you feel. You're right—Anne Marlowe shouldn't be brought into any discussion here. Not Anne Marlowe."

BRAZIL TONIGHT!

Greencastle's Tiger Cubs will have their hands full tonight, if they succeed in taming their old rivals, the Red Devils.

Saturday evening, a rejuvenated Brazil team invaded Crawfordsville and swept through the Athenian defense for a 34 to 29 victory. The half score was knotted at 16-16.

This win by the Brazilians came after they had bowed to the Athens, Texas, squad by a one-sided count.

Any team that beats Crawfordsville by five points or more this season is certainly a tough opponent.

Bausman and his net tossers are taking tonight's encounter a great deal more seriously than a lot of local fans. Brazil will be a hard nut to crack on their own floor.

From all indications a big crowd of Cub boosters will accompany the home team to the Clay county seat this evening. The local Juniors and the Brazil Juniors will tangle in a curtain raiser at 7 o'clock with the main game starting about 8 p. m.

Jeff of Lafayette comes here Friday. Saturday night, Emerson of Gary handed the Jeff outfit a 27 to 21 beating, consequently the up-Monon crew will come to Greencastle determined to get revenge at the expense of the Tiger Cubs.

Bainbridge basketball teams had a big night Saturday, winning three tilts. The Bainbridge high school first team downed North Salem, 17 to 13, in an exciting game played on the Danville floor. The half score was 7 to 4 in favor of the Admirals.

The Bainbridge seconds rapped the North Salem reserves, 27 to 11. The Bainbridge Juniors swamped the North Salem Juniors 27 to 12.

It was certainly a "large evening" for Bainbridge.

Tonight, up on the north Putnam court, the Bainbridge girls' team will clash with the Lucky Eight. The Juniors will also play, meeting the Rosedale Junior aggregation.

BELLE UNION LOSES

Belle Union was nosed out, 22 to 20, in an overtime tilt at Lizton Saturday night. The Lizton tiltet took an 8 to 1 lead and led most of the game. The Jefferson township netters tied the score just before the gun ended the contest, only to lose by a two-point margin in the overtime. In a curtain raiser the Belle Union Juniors were also nosed out by 2 points.

BIG FACTOR IN 32 TO 26
VICTORY

ATHENS, O., Jan. 5.—DePauw inaugurated its entrance into Buckeye Conference competition Saturday with a 32 to 26 victory over Ohio university's basketball team.

The Tigers displayed a great defense in the early part of the game and eight minutes of the contest elapsed before the Bobcats tallied a field goal. With Eubank and DeWalt leading the attack, DePauw amassed a 14 to 1 lead at this time.

Warshawer sank the first field goal for Ohio and two baskets by Saunders and one each by Lockman and Trace put the locals in the running before the close of the half, which ended with DePauw in front, 16 to 12.

DePauw made only two personal fouls in the initial session. With the exception of a free throw by Boswell and two charity tosses by Ragsdale, all the DePauw points were made by DeWalt and Eubank, who specialized in one-handed shots.

Ohio battled to gain the advantage with the start of the second half, but every time Warshawer, local star hit, Eubank or Graham retaliated for the Tigers. In the middle of the session, the visitors began to draw away and pushed their lead to 31 to 22. Warshawer added two more baskets just before the game ended.

KIDNAPER FOUND

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 5, (UP)—The St. Louis Star in a copyright story today said it had found Charles Y. Abernathy, negro kidnaper of 13-year-old Adolphus Orthwein, heir to the Busch brewing millions, who was returned to his home Jan. 1, after being held captive 20 hours.

Abernathy made a signed confession, the Star said, and denied that the kidnaping was premeditated, and said he had left his home on New Year's eve with the intention of "holding some rich folks up" because "I needed money to feed my children."

BANDITS SURROUNDED

MONROE, Ohio, Jan. 5 (UP)—A posse of 150 townspeople surrounded a woods near here today, hoping to trap a man and a young girl who an hour earlier failed in an attempt to hold up the Monroe National Bank.

Austin Smith, Cashier, and Robert Metzler, his assistant, were in the bank when the pair entered. The man carried a machine gun and the girl an automatic. While the man stood guard the girl demanded money.

ROBBERY SLATE NEARLY CLEAN

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 5 (UP)—The 1931 robbery slate in Indiana was nearly cleaned today, with confessions of two men that they participated in the $800 robbery of the State Bank of Albany, Saturday. A large proportion of the loot was recovered.

Edward Locke, 31, Muncie, and Fred Males, 28, Anderson, were said by police to have confessed that they and two other men held up the bank. Roscoe (Tuffy) Wray and a man whose name was not given, were still sought.

DROUGHT MACHINERY READY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (UP)—The machinery for distribution of federal drought relief funds is practically complete, it was made known today when the bill appropriating $45,000,000 for the relief of drought-stricken farmers was reported to the house. Adoption was expected before night.

Hearings before the appropriations committee, made public at the same time, revealed that farmers who need the money to meet requirements for spring wheat in February would be taken care of on ample time.

A tentative allotment of the funds is to be made among the various needy states so that no one area will benefit at the expense of another. The amount of loans to each individual also will be limited and paid in installments to meet the borrower's needs.

SCIENTIST IN STATEMENT

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2, (UP)—Women tend to remember more of the pleasant experiences of life than the unpleasant and men remember the unpleasant to a greater degree than happy occurrences, Dr. Hyman Meltzer, psychologist of the psychiatric clinic of St. Louis and lecturer of Washington University, St. Louis, today told psychologists of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In a new psychological test given 77 men and 55 women at the close of the 1929 holiday season Dr. Meltzer reported that he asked each to list all their pleasant and unpleasant experiences during the vacation period. Without warning he asked them, six weeks later, to repeat the listing of experiences.

He said that a comparison of the listings showed that there is a difference in the type of experiences remembered after a month and a half.

He explained the feminine tendency to forget as to what psychologists speak of as an escape mechanism. He stated that in his opinion women are able to forget unpleasant experiences instead of resorting to alcohol.

"Men more frequently than women, even in modern days, use what George Bernard Shaw talks of as the 'opiate of booze' to make them forget," said Dr. Meltzer.
